This should go after the preceding commands. For most document styles, this will form a separate page, while the article document style will place the title on the top of the first page. Note that the abstract environment should precede the command in AMS documents.

Footnotes within the title page can be specified with the command. For example, one may add